QMT

Architecture & Design

Family villa near the coast of Farsund, Norway

Specifications

- energetically self sufficient
- installation core with warm-cold storage mass
- solar panels integrated in roof
- natural filtered swimming pool
- use of local materials and building methods
- blends in with traditional buildings in the environment
- design based on the environment and orientation
- modular floor plans offer maximum flexibility
- spectacular living areas with big voids glass facades

QMT
Architecture & Design

Landscape family villa, based on traditional wood craftmanship, with a contemporary twist

QMT
Architecture & Design

The two building parts surround a sheltered outside lounging area

QMT
Architecture & Design

Entrance side with a big glass section on the north-east roof

QMT
Architecture & Design

A big natural swimming pool is connected to the veranda of the house

QMT
Architecture & Design

The facade on the entry side is more closed and formal to ensure privacy

On the landscape side the house opens up to make a full connection with the environtment

When entering the car garage the landscape reveals itself

Facade concept

QMT
Architecture & Design

The verandas on the south-west facades offer shading and prevent overheating during summer

The reflecting pool brings the daylight deep into the house

The big outside terrace is perfect for lounging in the summer evening sun

Concept outside areas

QMT
Architecture & Design

The construction is part of the spatial experience

Core mass with fireplace

The bar offers an excellent view on the surrouding environment

The interior has big voids and glass facades to connect to the breathtaking environment

Interior concept

QMT
Architecture & Design

Kitchen with natural materials and a lot of daylight

The fireplace as a centrepoint

Lounging in the late winter sun

Central living area

QMT
Architecture & Design

Swimming pool at night

QMT
Architecture & Design

QMT Architecture & Design is an Amsterdam-area based architecture firm. We are specialized in making exclusive tailor-made homes and luxurious living environments.

Our team consists of specialists with a broad variety of skills varying from security and building techniques to styling and interior design. We all work in a very personal and involved way.

This results in very special projects that are highly appreciated by our clients.

Kind regards,

Your QMT-team

jasper@qmtdesign.com
www.qmtdesign.com

QMT
Architecture & Design